COMMUNICATION

To the Editor of the Review:

There has been so much criticism by ratepayers of the towns in connection with the actions of three of our school trustees in voting to terminate the contracts of the married teachers on our permanent staff that I thought I would bring a few of the facts to the attention of your readers in the hope that the Board even at this late date might reconsider their actions.

I understand that the reason given by the chairman of the board for this move was to make room for young town girls just coming out of normal. There are those who doubt the genuineness of this reason, may I ask since when did our school board become an employment bureau? I have always been my idea that the primary duty of the Board was as representatives of the ratepayers, to spend their money to the best possible advantage first in the advantage of the children and in the interests of the ratepayers. If this be so then how can the Board justify its actions in letting out teachers who have been tried and been proved perfectly satisfactory to pupils, parents and inspectors, and some of whom are recognized as the best in the province in their particular grades, and put in their place others with no experience. Is that spending the ratepayers money judiciously? Is it being fair to the children? Is it being fair to the teachers who have worked so faithfully for a number of years at less salaries than were being paid in other schools of our size, because the town was financially embarrassed?

It these members of the Board, sincere in their desire to give our girls a place on the staff by not let the outsiders on the staff in, to make room for them, and keep on those who are permanent residents, keeping up on and incidentally taking an active part in all movements in the interests of the town. In passing I might remark that one of the tea fees dismissed paid back to the town in taxes almost one month of her salary as a teacher, and the other makes it possible for her indeed to pay his taxes by renting his building. Are these important matters not worthy of some consideration? I have been exceedingly pleased at the number of ratepayers in town who do not approve of

REDCLIFF STAMPEDE WAS GREAT SUCCESS FROM EVERY ANGLE

Cool Weather—Good Attendance and Horse Races Close and Exciting—Bucking Horses and Steers Wild and Woolly—Good Riders

Despite the financial depression and a rather cool wind, Redcliff's annual Stampede held on Dominion Day attracted a large attendance, and the program put on was quite in keeping with the splendid record set by the Redcliff Stampede association for the past five years.

All the horse races were close and furnished all kinds of excitement for the spectators. In the mile race a blanket would have covered the three leading horses as they went under the wire for the finish.

The Roman race was most spectacular and many on the grounds thought the best ever seen in this part of the country. All the entrants were good standing riders and so evenly were the horses matched that in two of the heats they went down the back stretch six abreast. It was a fine sight which gave the onlookers a real thrill. Interest and enthusiasm was added to this race as a young lady was one of the entrants. Mrs. Joe Tester and Annie Shilmar proved herself a most daring and capable horsewoman and handled her team with great skill and coolness. Her performance was a rarely seen outside of a circus.

A number of good riders were present from east and west for the bucking contest and steer riding. Both horses and steers were real stampede stock. They came out of the chute twisting high wide and handsome, testing the riders to the limit in their efforts to sit tight. Those in control of this part of the program were greatly handicapped in the performance of their task by the spectators who crowded around the corals and otherwise seriously interfered with the view of other spectators. Something will have to be done to control the crowd another year.

Before starting the horse races, a program of foot races was put on for the school children, and furnished some excitement for both spectators and contestants.

In the evening Cliff Hall was taxed to capacity to accommodate the large crowd which attended the dance.

On the whole the day was a great success. It was free from any unruly disturbances and there were no serious accidents to mar the proceedings.

Although the admission fee to the grounds was lowered this year, the committee hope, by cutting down expenses to a minimum, to break about even on the day. The following is a list of the prize winners:

Saddle Horse Races
Boys' Race—J. Skidmore, J. Reynen rider; G. Ellis.

Grade Eight Puts on A Unique Event

Excellent Program For Pupils Going to High School

Grade eight room in our public school was the scene of a rather unique event last Tuesday afternoon when pupils, parents and invited friends gathered together for the celebration of an event which forms an important milestone in the school life of the pupils in grade eight, namely their passing from public school to high school.

The room was taxed to its capacity to accommodate the large attendance of interested parents and all the pupils entered most heartily into the spirit of the occasion.

The program was made up of a number of addresses on timely topics by the pupils and was liberally interspersed with recitation and music by the pupils of the room.

Revs. R. E. Pow and M. Stewart also addressed the gathering and gave sage and timely advice to the pupils, laying special stress on the growing importance of education to better fit them to take their places in all lines of activities in after life.

Mr. Stewart greatly enjoyed the program and said it showed that the teacher had the right idea in rounding out the lives of the children under her. Mr. Pow took advantage of the opportunity to personally thank Mrs. Stone for the influence she had on them passing through the school and also for the interest she always taken in all worthy movements in town.

The following was the program—Chorus, O Canada; Address, "Canada, My Native Land" Keith Ellis; Recitation, "Trees." Sarah Davies; Chorus, "In Days of Old," Class; Address, "The British Empire," Robert Pow; Chorus, "The Last Rose of Summer," Class; Address, "Value of Humor in the School," Eric Congram; Chorus, "The Hammer Song," Class; Address, "Home-work, Its Pros and Cons," Edith Collard; Recitation, "Work" Emma Podesta; Address, "Value of Athletics in School," Ed Champ; Reading, "All Else in the World," Mildred Walton; Chorus, "The Brightest Morning," Class; Address, "Examination, Their Elimination or Retention," Reggie Rose; Presentation of Prizes, Mr. King; Valedictory, Elmer Congram; Good Will Ceremony, the graduating class.

Space will not permit us to comment on each item. Suffice it to say all were exceptionally well rendered. The addresses contained excellent material and were delivered in a manner that made the older guests sit up and take notice. The Good Will Ceremony was very impressive and exceptionally well done. In this each boy presented a girl with a bouquet and the girls pinned the school colors on the boys, after which all recited their good will message.

Before singing the National Anthem the pupils presented the teacher with a set of plaques of western scenery, made by a local artist, Mr. T. Todd. In acknowledging the gift Mrs. Stone took advantage of the occasion to thank her pupils, not only for

Dominion Govt. Gives Unemployed More Aid

Will Assume 50 Per Cent. of Cash Outlay

Returning to Ottawa after an extended trip through the west, Senator Robertson, Minister of Labor, was greatly moved by the jobless needs of the west. In Vancouver he announced that the Dominion government would assume 50 per cent. of the cost of looking after the needs of transient unemployed and all the responsibility for this class in smaller centers.

Addressing a meeting at Winnipeg on his return east, Senator Robertson stated that the west would be taken care of first in smaller centers.

No doubt the senator came to this conclusion after a careful investigation. Now in there any doubt that after his investigation he found that a large percentage of the transient unemployed now in the west drifted out here from the east, and were a serious burden on western cities and towns.

Children are now enjoying the benefits of the swimming pool. Parents should secure their season tickets as soon as possible to guarantee the continuance of the pool during the hot weather.

their gift but also for the splendid spirit of harmony, helpfulness and appreciation they had always shown to her. She also thanked the parents for their co-operation and said it was not hard to tell from the pupils, the homes in which the teacher's judgment and instructions were upheld by the parents. Most of the unpleasantness between teachers, parent and pupils arose from parents listening to the brittle prattle of the children, most of which was generally badly graded and twisted between Chorus, "The Last Rose of Summer," Class; Address, "Value of Humor in the School," Eric Congram; Chorus, "The Hammer Song," Class; Address, "Home-work, Its Pros and Cons," Edith Collard; Recitation, "Work" Emma Podesta; Address, "Value of Athletics in School," Ed Champ; Reading, "All Else in the World," Mildred Walton; Chorus, "The Brightest Morning," Class; Address, "Examination, Their Elimination or Retention," Reggie Rose; Presentation of Prizes, Mr. King; Valedictory, Elmer Congram; Good Will Ceremony, the graduating class.

While she thought her forced retirement was very unjust and a poor reward for faithful services rendered, Mrs. Stone expressed the hope that parents would show the same spirit of co-operation, encouragement and gratitude to her successor, they had always extended to her.

Before closing Mr. King was asked to present the prizes which were won by several pupils of the room for proficiency in their work. Mr. King congratulated the winners and said that the things for which the prizes were won were very important matters which would be well for them to continue to excel in, in the high school and after they left school. These were neatness, punctuality and regularity, proficiency and progress. He paid a high tribute to the ability of Mrs. Stone as a teacher and said the graduates were very fortunate, not because they had passed grade eight but because they had had Mrs. Stone as a teacher.

The program closed with the singing of the National Anthem.
